EDITOR'S PREFACE.

THE present volume is the first of a series of elementary Latin books in preparation by Dr. W. Smith, Editor of the Dictionary of Biography and Mythology, of Greek and Roman Antiquities, etc. The plan, object, and sources of the work are fully set forth in the Author's Preface subjoined. It has one great merit of a school-book designed for beginners—brevity. The essentials of Grammar are given without unnecessary detail or minute exceptions. At the age at which Latin is usually begun the memory is much more active and developed than the reasoning faculties; the Author has therefore judiciously preferred the synthetic to the analytic method. Exercises in double translation are given after each Declension and Conjugation, to impress the forms thus learned more firmly on the memory.

In revising the work the Editor has made a few alterations and additions, which he trusts may be found to be improvements. As it is essential for an accurate knowledge of Latin to know the quantities of syllables, whatever system of pronunciation may be preferred by the teacher, the Editor has introduced, from the first lesson, the simpler and more comprehensive rules of Prosody. He has added also paradigms of the more frequently-recurring Greek nouns of the First, Second, and Third Declensions, and a few pages of continuous narrative taken from Woodford's Epitome of Cæsar, in the exact words of the author, but with the complex sentences broken up, and the difficult parenthetic clauses omitted. The selection extends from the beginning of Cæsar to the end of the Helvetian Campaign.

In the original work the Vocabularies were thrown together at the end of the Second Part, but in this edition they have been placed before the Exercises to which they respectively belong; there is great convenience in this arrangement, and, as the pupil is expected to learn the Vocabulary by heart, it can not afford him any improper assistance, especially as words once given are not repeated in subsequent Vocabularies.

A Second Part, containing the remainder of Woodford's simplified Cæsar, and L'Homond's "Viri Romæ" is in preparation as a Supplement to the present volume, furnishing, it is believed, sufficient reading matter to enable the pupil to enter, with a competent supply of words and experience in translation, upon the profitable study of Cæsar or Virgil.

PREFACE.

THE following work is the first of a short series which the writer has undertaken with the view of facilitating the study of the Latin language. It is the result of many years' practical teaching, and seeks to combine the advantages of the older and more modern methods of instruction. While boys are sometimes compelled to commit to memory all the grammatical forms and syntactical rules without having their knowledge tested by any practical application in the construction of sentences, so that they frequently forget the former part of the Grammar by the time they have finished the latter, they are in other cases burdened by a large number of explanations and cautions, and by complicated rules for the formation of cases and other inflectional forms. The latter error is almost as grave as the former in the case of young boys, as they are thus taught analytically what ought to be first learned synthetically.

The main object of this work is to enable a beginner to fix the Declensions and Conjugations thoroughly in his memory, to learn their usage by constructing simple sentences as soon as he commences the study of the language, and to accumulate gradually a stock of useful words. It is divided into two parts:

I. The first part contains the Grammatical Forms, with Exercises upon all the inflections, in which the simple rules of syntax are introduced, as they are required for the formation of sentences.

II. The second part contains an explanation of some of the more important idioms of the language, such as the construction of the Accusative Case and the Infinitive Mood, of the Ablative Absolute, of the Gerund and Gerundive, etc., exemplified by Exercises upon each construction. The Vocabulary relating to each Exercise is [prefixed to the Exercise], and Alphabetical Indices of the Latin and English words in the Vocabularies are [given at the end of the volume].

Digitized by Google

The work thus contains Grammar, Delectus, and Exercise-book, with Vocabularies, and consequently presents in one book all that the pupil will require for some time in his study of the language. It is confidently believed that a boy who has gone carefully through the work will have acquired a sound knowledge of the chief grammatical forms, and of the most important syntactical rules, and will thus be prepared to enter upon the systematic study of a larger Grammar with advantage and profit.

In the Grammar the writer has deviated as little as possible from the usual arrangement of the Declensions and Conjugations, and only when some clear and positive advantage was to be gained. Thus, in the Third Declension, he has introduced a simpler and easier classification, according to the final letter of the stem,* instead of the one in the ordinary grammars, which occasions boys so much difficulty and perplexity.

In using the book, it is suggested that the pupil should be required to learn by heart the Vocabulary belonging to each Exercise; that he should then read over the Exercise vivâ voce in the class, the master giving such explanations as he may deem necessary; and that then, but not till then, the pupil should write down what he has previously read in class. It should be the aim of the master to prevent the pupil, as far as possible, from committing mistakes to writing, as experience has shown that the original mistake, when fixed in the memory by means of writing, is often remembered long after the correction has been forgotten.

* The Stem must be distinguished from the Root. The Root is that part of the word which remains after taking away the Suffix; the Stem is that part of the word which remains after taking away the Inflections; thus, in agilis, agili is the Stem of the Adjective, but AG is the Root.

In drawing up the Exercises, the writer has derived assistance from the following books, all of which are used in the public schools of Germany:

Kühner, Lateinische Vorschule, Hannover, 1858.

Spiess, Uebungsbuch zum Uebersetzen aus dem Lateinischen in's Deutsche und aus dem Deutschen in's Lateinische, Essen, 1858.

Jacobs and Döring, Lateinisches Elementarbuch, Jena, 1856.

Bleske, Elementarbuch der Lateinischen Sprache, Hannover, 1858.

Bonnell, Uebungstücke zum Uebersetzen aus dem Lateinischen in's Deutsche für die ersten Anfänger, Berlin, 1854.

Ellendt, Lateinisches Lesebuch für die untersten Klassen der Gymnasien, Königsberg, 1857.

Gedike, Lateinisches Lesebuch, Berlin, 1857.

He has also to acknowledge his obligations to Mr. T. D. Hall, M.A., for the correction of the proofs and for many valuable suggestions.

It is right to state that the whole of this work was written and the greater part of it printed before the publication of Mr. Hutton's "Introduction to the Study of Greek," the plan of which is very similar to that of the present book. W. S.

London, November, 1859.

PART I.

GRAMMATICAL FORMS.

I.—The Alphabet. Quantity. Genders. Parts of Speech. Substantives.

1. Alphabet.—The Latin Alphabet consists of 25 letters, the same as the English without W.

A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, a, b, c, d, e, f, g, h, i, j, k, l, m, n, o, p,
Q, R, S, T, U, V, X, Y, Z.
q, r, s, t, u, v, x, y, z.

Of these y and z were used only in words introduced from Greek; k is found only before a, and q only before u.

The letters are divided into Vowels and Consonants.

The Vowels are a, e, i, o, u, y. The remaining letters are Consonants; of these l, m, n, r, are called liquids, s is called a sibilant,

x and z are double letters, and the rest are called mutes.

A syllable consists of one or more letters pronounced in one breath.

Two vowels joined in one syllable make a Diphthong; the Diphthongs are ae, oe, au, which are in common use, and eu, ei, ui, which occur in only a few words.

2. Quantity.—Quantity is used to denote the quicker or slower pronunciation of a syllable.

A syllable is considered short or long as its vowel is short or long.

Digitized by Google

A Long Syllable has the mark (¯) over the vowel. A Short Syllable has the mark (˘) over the vowel. A syllable marked thus (ᵕ) is sometimes long, sometimes short.

A vowel may be
- Short by nature; as ămŏr.
- Long by nature; as vērus.
- Short by position (before another vowel); as pĭus.
- Long by position (before two consonants or a double consonant); as pērdĭx.

3. Genders.—There are three Genders:

Masculine, Feminine, and Neuter.

Substantives which are either Masculine or Feminine are called Common.

[See general Rules for Gender on page 112.]

4. Parts of Speech.—There are eight parts of speech in the Latin language:

1. Substantive, or Noun.
2. Adjective.
3. Pronoun.
4. Verb.
5. Adverb.
6. Preposition.
7. Conjunction.
8. Interjection.

Of these the first four admit of inflection, the last four do not. Inflection is the mode of changing the termination of words to show their relation to other words.

The Inflection of Nouns, Adjectives, and Pronouns is called Declension, that of Verbs is called Conjugation.

There is no article in the Latin language: hence the Latin mensa means not only table, but also a table and the table.

5. Substantives.—The Substantive is declined by Number and Case.

There are two Numbers: Singular and Plural.

There are six Cases: Nominative, Genitive, Dative, Accusative, Vocative, Ablative.

There are five Declensions distinguished by the endings of the Genitive Case Singular: thus,

Digitized by Google

The genitive of the first declension ends in ae.

" " " second " " i.

" " " fifth " " ēi.

II.—The First Declension.

The Nominative Singular of Latin Substantives of the First Declension ends in ă, and the Genitive in ae.

Sing.		Plur.
Nom. Mens-ă,	a table.	Mens-ae,	tables.
Gen. Mens-ae,	of a table.	Mens-ārum,	of tables.
Dat. Mens-ae,	to or for a table.	Mens-īs,	to or for tables.
Acc. Mens-am,	a table.	Mens-ās,	tables.
Voc. Mens-ă,	O table. [table.	Mens-ae,	O tables. [bles.
Abl. Mens-ā,	by, with, or from a	Mens-īs,	by, with, or from ta-

All Substantives of the First Declension are Feminine, unless they designate males; as, nauta, a sailor.

[The Declension of Greek Nouns is given on page 28].

*Some General Rules of Quantity.

1. A diphthong is always long.

2. A vowel is long before a double consonant, or before two single consonants (not a mute and liquid), or j.

3. A vowel is short before another vowel.

4. In declinable words final a is short, except in the ablative of the first declension, where a is always long.

H is not a consonant in Prosody; it does not, with a consonant, lengthen the preceding vowel, nor does it, between two vowels, prevent the shortening of the former.

Rule 1.—A personal verb agrees with its Nominative case in number and person: as, pŭella currĭt, the girl runs; puellae currunt, the girls run.

* Except where these Rules apply, the quantity will be marked in the vocabularies until other Rules are given; and the student is expected to accustom himself from the start to marking carefully in pronunciation the quantity of every syllable.

Digitized by Google

RULE 2.—Transitive verbs govern an Accusative case (of the direct object): as, ăquĭla ālās hăbĕt, the eagle has wings.

VOCABULARY 1.

f = Feminine.

āla, f.	a wing.	mensa, f.	a table.
ăquĭla, f.	an eagle.	ōra, f.	a coast.
cŏlōnia, f.	a colony.	pĕcūnia, f.	money.
cŏlumba, f.	a dove.	porta, f.	a gate.
cŏrōna, f.	a crown.	puella, f.	a girl.
fēmĭna, f.	a woman.	rēgīna, f.	a queen.
fĭlia, f.	a daughter.	Rōma, f.	Rome (the city).
insŭla, f.	an island.	rōsa, f.	a rose.

[Give the Rules for the quantity in the above where the marks are omitted.]

Currĭt, runs. Currunt, run.
Hăbĕt, has. Hăbent, have.

EXERCISE I.

[The vocabulary should in every case be committed to memory and recited by the pupil before he begins to translate.]

1. Filia currit. 2. Filiae currunt. 3. Regina coronam habet. 4. Puella coronam habet. 5. Filia pecuniam habet. 6. Femina pecuniam habet. 7. Roma portas habet. 8. Coloniae portas habent. 9. Puellae rosas habent. 10. Feminae rosas habent. 11. Columbae alas habent. 12. Insulae oras habent.

1. The woman runs. 2. The women run. 3. The dove has wings. 4. The eagles have wings. 5. The colony has gates. 6. The island has coasts. 7. The girls have money. 8. The women have money. 9. The colony has women. 10. The island has colonies. 11. The woman has a crown. 12. The islands have roses.

RULE 3.—When two Nouns in Latin are connected by the verb "To Be," they are put in the same case: as, Brĭtannia est insŭla, Britain is an island.

RULE 4.—Of two Substantives, signifying different things, the limiting one is put in the Genitive case: as, Brĭtannia est insŭla Eurōpae, Britain is an island of Europe.

In this example the words "of Europe" indicate a more limited use of the word island than in the example under the previous rule. This limiting noun is put (in Latin) in the genitive case, whether it stands before or after the other noun.

Vocabulary 2.

m = Masculine.

agrĭcŏla, m.	a husbandman.	incŏla, m.	an inhabitant.
ămīcĭtia, f.	friendship.	inimīcĭtia, f.	enmity.
Brĭtannia, f.	Britain.	Ĭtălia, f.	Italy.
causa, f.	a cause.	nauta, m.	a sailor.
Eurōpa, f.	Europe.	patria, f.	a native-land, country.
Gallia, f.	Gaul (now France).	pōēta, m.	a poet.
glōria, f.	glory.	pugna, f.	a battle.
Graecia, f.	Greece.	Sĭcilia, f.	Sicily.
		vīta, f.	life.

Est, is. Sunt, are.

Exercise II.

1. Sicilia est insula. 2. Sicilia est insula Europae. 3. Roma est regina Italiae. 4. Incolae Italiae sunt poetae. 5. Incolae insularum sunt nautae. 6. Incolae Britanniae sunt agricolae. 7. Insula est patria nautarum. 8. Graecia est patria poetarum. 9. Amicitia est gloria vitae. 10. Inimicitia incolarum est causa pugnae.

1. Britain is an island of Europe. 2. Britain is the native-land of sailors. 3. Italy is the native-land of poets. 4. The inhabitants of Britain are sailors. 5. The inhabitants of Sicily are sailors. 6. The inhabitants of Gaul are husbandmen. 7. An island is the native-land of sailors. 8. Friendship is the crown of life. 9. The battle is the cause of glory. 10. The enmity of the sailors is the cause of the battle.

III.—The Second Declension.

The Nominative Singular of Masculine Substantives of the Second Declension ends in ŭs, ĕr, and ĭr (in vir and compounds), and of Neuter Substantives in um. The Genitive Singular ends in i.

A. Masculine.

	Sing.		Plur.
Nom.	Dŏmĭn-ŭs,	a lord.	Dŏmĭn-ī,	lords.
Gen.	Dŏmĭn-ī,	of a lord.	Dŏmĭn-ōrum,	of lords.
Dat.	Dŏmĭn-ō,	to or for a lord.	Dŏmĭn-īs,	to or for lords.
Acc.	Dŏmĭn-um,	a lord.	Dŏmĭn-ōs,	lords.
Voc.	Dŏmĭn-ĕ,	O lord. [a lord.	Dŏmĭn-ī,	O lords. [lords.

Sing.		2.	Plur.
Nom.	Glădi-ŭs,	a sword.	Glădi-ī,	swords.
Gen.	Glădi-ī,	of a sword.	Glădi-ōrum,	of swords.
Dat.	Glădi-ō,	to or for a sword.	Glădi-īs,	to or for swords.
Acc.	Glădi-um,	a sword.	Glădi-ōs,	swords.
Voc.	Glădi-ē,	O sword. [sword.	Glădi-ī,	O swords. [swords.
Abl.	Glădi-ō,	by, with, or from a	Glădi-īs,	by, with, or from REMARK.—Proper names in ius, and also filius and genius, are declined like gladius, but make the vocative in i instead of ie (by contraction): as, Virgilī (from Virgilius), O Virgil; fīlī (from filius), O son.

Sing.		3.	Plur.
Nom.	Măgistĕr,	a master.	Măgistr-ī,	masters.
Gen.	Măgistr-ī,	of a master.	Măgistr-ōrum,	of masters.
Dat.	Măgistr-ō,	to or for a master.	Măgistr-is,	to or for masters.
Acc.	Măgistr-um,	a master.	Măgistr-ōs,	masters.
Voc.	Măgistĕr,	O master.	Măgistr-ī,	O masters.
Abl.	Măgistr-ō,	by, with, or from a master.	Măgistr-īs,	by, with, or from masters.

		4.
Nom.	Puĕr,	a boy.	Puĕr-i,	boys.
Gen.	Puĕr-ī,	of a boy.	Puĕr-ōrum,	of boys.
Dat.	Puĕr-ō,	to or for a boy.	Puĕr-īs,	to or for boys.
Acc.	Puĕr-um,	a boy.	Puĕr-ōs,	boys.
Voc.	Puĕr,	O boy. [boy.	Puĕr-ī,	O boys.
Abl.	Puĕr-ō,	by, with, or from a	Puĕr-īs,	by, with, or from boys.

		5.
Nom.	Vĭr,	a man.	Vĭr-ī,	men.
Gen.	Vĭr-i,	of a man.	Vĭr-ōrum,	of men.
Dat.	Vĭr-ō,	to or for a man.	Vĭr-īs,	to or for men.
Acc.	Vĭr-um,	a man.	Vĭr-ōs,	men.
Voc.	Vĭr,	O man. [man.	Vĭr-ī,	O men.
Abl.	Vĭr-ō,	by, with, or from a	Vĭr-īs,	by, with, or from men.

B. Neuter.

Nom.	Regn-um,	a kingdom.	Regn-ă,	kingdoms.
Gen.	Regn-ī,	of a kingdom.	Regn-ōrum,	of kingdoms.
Dat.	Regn-ō,	to or for a kingdom.	Regn-īs,	to or for kingdoms.
Acc.	Regn-um,	a kingdom.	Regn-ă,	kingdoms.
Voc.	Regn-um,	O kingdom.	Regn-ă,	O kingdoms.
Abl.	Regn-ō,	by, with, or from a kingdom.	Regn-īs,	by, with, or from kingdoms.

In all Neuter Substantives, the Nominative, Accusative, and Vocative are the same in the Singular and Plural respectively.

[For declension of Deus and Greek nouns, see page 26 and 28.]

Additional Rules of Quantity (see p. 140).

1. I final is long.
2. O final is long.
3. U final is long.
4. As, es, and os final are long.
5. Is and us final are short; but is in plural cases long.

Exception.—Us is long in the Nom., Acc., and Voc. Plur. and Gen. Sing. of the 4th Declension, and in the Nominative of Nouns of the 3d Declension, which increase long in the Genitive; as, virtūs, ūtis, etc.

Exercise III.

Masculine Substantives in ŭs.

Vocabulary 3.

ămīcus, m.	a friend.	hortus, m.	a garden.
ăvus, m.	a grandfather.	ĭnīmīcus, m.	an enemy.
dŏmĭnus, m.	a lord, master.	Rhēnus, m.	the Rhine.
ĕquus, m.	a horse.	Rhŏdănus, m.	the Rhone.
fīlius, m.	a son.	rīpa, f.	a bank.
flŭvius, m.	a river.	servus, m.	a slave.
glădius, m.	a sword.	taurus, m.	a bull.

Remark.—When two or more nominatives singular are connected by a conjunction, the verb is put in the plural; as, Rhēnus et Rhŏdănus sunt fluvii, the Rhine and the Rhone are rivers.

1. Filius currit. 2. Servi currunt. 3. Dominus servos habet. 4. Filius domini servos habet. 5. Dominus servos et equos habet. 6. Filii dominorum equos et tauros habent. 7. Avus servos et equos habet. 8. Filius amici hortum habet. 9. Filii inimicorum gladios habent. 10. Rhodanus est fluvius Galliae. 11. Rhodanus et Rhenus sunt fluvii Galliae. 12. Hortus rosas habet.

1. The slave runs. 2. The sons run. 3. The grandfather has a slave. 4. The son of the grandfather has slaves. 5. The sons of the grandfather have slaves. 6. The sons of the lords are sailors. 7. The sons of the slaves are husbandmen. 8. The lord has slaves and horses. 9. The Rhone and the Rhine are rivers of Europe. 10. The friends of the grandfather are poets. 11. The enemies of the lord have swords. 12. The rivers of the island have banks.

Rule 5.—The Dative Case indicates the person (or thing) who gains or receives any thing: as, Măgister cŏlumbam pŭĕro dat, the master gives a dove to the boy.

Dăt, gives. Dant, give.

Additional Rules of Quantity.

1. In the singular increment of nouns a and o are usually long; e, i, u, and y are short.

2. In the plural increment of nouns a, e, and o are long; i and u are short.

[By increment is meant the syllable (or syllables) which an oblique case has more than the nominative; as aetas, genitive aetātis, in which āt is the (singular) increment; pueri (nominative plural), puerōrum (genitive plural), in which ōr is the (plural) increment; and so duces, ducĭbus.]

There are several exceptions to the rule for the singular increment; these will be marked for the present in the vocabularies, and will be specified more fully in subsequent pages: see exceptions on p. 156.

X.—Some Greek Nouns.

1. Greek Nouns of the First Declension end in as, es, masculine, and e feminine, and differ only in the Singular number from Latin nouns; they are chiefly Proper Names.

Nom.	Ænē-as,	Æneas.	Anchīs-es,	Anchises.
Gen.	Ænē-æ,	of Æneas.	Anchīs-æ,	of Anchises.
Dat.	Ænē-æ,	to or for Æneas.	Anchīs-æ,	to or for Anchises.
Acc.	Ænē-am or Ænē-ān,	Æneas.	Anchīs-ēn,	Anchises.
Voc.	Ænē-ā,	O Æneas.	Anchīs-ē or ā,	O Anchises.
Abl.	Ænē-ā,	by, with, or from Æneas.	Anchīs-ē or ā,	by, with, or from Anchises.

Remark.—The Vocative in a of Greek Nouns in as is long.

Note.—More minute variations in the forms of the cases, and the other forms not given here, are not required until the student enters upon his more advanced grammar.

2. Greek Nouns of the Second Declension end in os, masculine or feminine, and on neuter.

Nom.	Dēl-ŏs,	Delos.	Īli-ŏn,	Ilium.
Gen.	Dēl-i,	of Delos.	Īli-ī,	of Ilium.
Dat.	Dēl-ō,	to or for Delos.	Īli-ō,	to or for Ilium.
Acc.	Dēl-ŏn,	Delos.	Īli-ŏn,	Ilium.

Abl.	Dēl-ō,	by, with, or from Delos.	Īli-ō,	by, with, or from Ilium.

Proper names in eus are sometimes of the Second, sometimes of the Third Declension; thus:

	Second Declension.		Third Declension.
Nom.	Orph-ĕūs	Orph-ēūs,	Orpheus.
Gen.	Orph-ĕī	Orph-ĕŏs,	of Orpheus.
Dat.	Orph-ĕō	Orph-ĕī or ēī,	to or for Orpheus.
Acc.	Orph-ĕum	Orph-ĕă,	Orpheus.
Voc.	———	Orph-ĕū,	O Orpheus.
Abl.	Orph-ĕō	———,	by, with, or from Orpheus.

3. The principal variations in form of Greek Nouns of the Third Declension (besides those in eus) consist in forming the Genitive Singular in os for is; as, Daphnis, genitive Daphnidos: the Accusative Singular in ă for em; as, heros, accusative herōă: the Vocative in ĕ for ĭs; as, Daphnis, vocative Daphnĕ: and the Accusative Plural in ăs for ēs: as, herōăs.

XII.—Comparison of Adjectives.

Adjectives have three forms, which are usually called the Positive, Comparative, and Superlative Degrees; as,

Positive.	Comparative.	Superlative.
altus, high.	altĭŏr, higher.	altissĭmus, highest, very high.

The Comparative is formed by adding ior and the Superlative by adding issĭmus to the Positive, after taking away the termination of the Genitive Singular; as,

Nom.	Gen.
altus,	alt-i,	high,	alt-ior,	alt-issĭmus,
lĕvis,	lĕv-is,	light,	lĕv-ior,	lĕv-issĭmus,
fēlix,	fēlīc-is,	fortunate,	fēlīc-ior,	fēlīc-issĭmus,
prūdens,	prūdent-is,	prudent,	prūdent-ior,	prūdent-issĭmus.

The Comparative is declined as follows:

	Sing.		Plur.
	M. and F.	N.	M. and F.	N.
Nom.	Altior	altius	Altiōr-ēs	altiōr-ă

XIII.—The Numerals.

Cardinal Numerals denote number simply or absolutely; as, ūnŭs, one; dŭo, two; trēs, three.

The declension of ūnŭs is given on p. 29.

Dŭo, trēs, and millĭă, thousands, are declined as follows:

	M.	F.	N.	M. and F.	N.	N.
Nom.	Du-o	du-ae	du-o	Tres	tria	Millĭă
Gen.	Du-ōrum	du-ārum	du-ōrum	Trium	—	Millium
Dat.	Du-ōbus	du-ābus	du-ōbus	Tribus	—	Millĭbus
Acc.	Du-ōs	du-ās	du-o	Trēs or trīs	tria	Millĭă
Abl.	Du-ōbus	du-ābus	du-ōbus	Tribus	—	Millĭbus

Millĕ in the singular is indeclinable; but it is usually an indeclinable adjective, as mille homines, mille hominum.

Millia (in pl.) is always a substantive, and is, of course, followed by the Genitive; as, duo millia hominum—never homines.

The Cardinal Numerals from quattuŏr, four, to centum, a hundred, are indeclinable.

Dŭcentī, ae, ă, two hundred, and the following hundreds, are declined regularly.

Ordinal Numerals denote numbers regarded as forming parts of a series; as, prīmus, first; sĕcundus, or altĕr, second. They are declined regularly as adjectives.

Subject and Predicate.

A Sentence (from the Latin Sententia, a thought) is the complete enunciation or expression in words of a thought, and consists of two chief parts, the Subject and the Predicate.

The Subject (from the Latin Subjectum, placed beneath, as the basis, as it were, of the sentence) is that of which something is asserted, which does, is, or suffers something. It stands in the Nominative Case, and is either a substantive or some word or phrase used as a substantive; as, rosa floret, the rose blooms; duo cadunt, two fall; errare humanum est, to err is human.

The Predicate (from the Latin Praedicatum, asserted of the subject) is that which is asserted of the subject, and is either a verb, or an adjective, or substantive combined with the verb esse; as, rosa floret, rosa pulchra est, rosa flos est.

The verb esse, when thus used, is called the Copula (tie or bond), because it binds, as it were, the Predicate to the Subject.

Remark.—In such sentences as Rosa flos est, rosa is called the Subject Nominative, and flos the Predicate Nominative.

Exception to Rule of Quantity (on p. 7).

Is final is long in Second Person Singular Present Indicative of the Fourth Conjugation; as, audis, and in velis (from volo) and compounds.

The Verb Sum.—Indicative Mood.

Who of Roman writers is more elegant than Livy? 6. (Those)* who are most faithful to their friends, (ii) are most dear to us. 7. Cicero himself gives the greatest praise to Demosthenes. 8. (Those)* who are the most daring (ii) are not always the most excellent. 9. The children of the good are not always themselves good. 10. Danger itself is pleasing to the brave.

NOTE.—Eadem=the same things. The Masculine of adjectives is frequently used to denote Persons, the Neuter to denote Things: in both cases without a Substantive.

XVII.—THE VERB.

Latin Verbs have two Voices:

I. ACTIVE.
II. PASSIVE.

Verbs have four Moods:

I. The INDICATIVE MOOD.
II. The SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD.
III. The IMPERATIVE MOOD.
IV. The INFINITIVE MOOD.

* Begin with qui, leaving the ii till the second clause of the sentence.

Digitized by Google

Three other forms are derived from and partake of the signification of Verbs:

I. The PARTICIPLE, which is a Verbal Adjective.
II. The SUPINE, } which are Verbal Substantives.
III. The GERUND, }

Verbs have six TENSES, three expressing Imperfect, or unfinished action, and three expressing Perfect or finished action:

Imperfect Tenses.	Perfect Tenses.
1. Present.	1. Present.
2. Past.	2. Past.
3. Future.	3. Future.

Obs. The Present-Perfect has also the meaning of an Indefinite Past: thus ămāvī signifies I loved as well as I have loved.

Verbs have two NUMBERS, Singular and Plural, and three PERSONS in each Number.

Latin Verbs are arranged in four classes, called CONJUGATIONS, distinguished by the ending of the Imperfect Infinitive Active; which in,

I. The First Conjugation ends in ārĕ; { as, ămārĕ, to love.
II. The Second " " ērĕ; { as, mŏnērĕ, to advise.
III. The Third " " ĕrĕ; { as, rĕgĕrĕ, to rule.
IV. The Fourth " " īrĕ; { as, audīrĕ, to hear.

The Present-Imperfect Indicative, the Present-Perfect Indicative, the Imperfect Infinitive, and the Supine are called the Principal Parts of the Verb, because it is necessary to know these in order to conjugate a Verb.

Obs. In all the Perfect Tenses vi and ve may be omitted before s and r; as,

ămāvistī	becomes ămastī	ămāvĕram	becomes ămāram
ămāvistis	" ămastis	ămāvĕro	" ămāro
ămāvērunt	" ămārunt	ămāvĕrim	" ămārim
but ămāvērĕ does not become ămārĕ, which would be confounded with the Imperfect Infinitive.		ămāvissem	" ămassem
		ămāvissŏ	" ămassŏ

Rules of Quantity.

REMARK.—It is usual to call the syllable or syllables occurring between the verbal stem (as am- in am-are) and the final syllable the verbal increment; thus, in am-o, am-as, there is no increment, but in am-a-mus, am-a-ba-mus, the a and ba are the increment.

[For convenience the Second Person Singular of the Present Indicative is assumed as the standard, and a verbal form is said to have an increment when it exceeds this in the number of its syllables.]

a, in the increment of verbs, is always long, except the first increase of do; as, amāmus, etc.; but dăbam, dăre, dăbāmus.

e, in the increment of verbs, is long; as, monēre, regēbam, amēris.

EXCEPTION 1.—e is short in the first increase of every Present and Imperfect of the third conjugation when followed by r; as, regĕre, regĕrem, regĕris.

EXCEPTION 2.—e is short before ram, rim, ro, of every conjugation, and in the termination bĕris or bĕre.

i, in the increment of verbs, is short; as, amavĭmus, amabĭtis, etc.

EXCEPTION 1.—i is long in the first increase of the fourth conjugation when followed by a consonant; as, audīre, audītis, audīvi.

Remark 1. Verbs of the third conjugation, which form their Perfects in ivi and Supines in itum, have the i of the penult long after the analogy of verbs of the fourth conjugation; as, peto, petīvi, petītum.

Remark 2. On the other hand, verbs of the fourth conjugation, which make the Perfect after the analogy of the third, as venīre, vēni, follow the rule, and have the i short; as Perfect vēnĭmus, while the Present is venīmus.

EXCEPTION 2.—i is long in the Present Subjunctive of sum and volo (and their compounds); as, sīmus, sītis, velīmus, velītis.

o is long in the increment of verbs; as, monetōte.

u is long in the Future Participle, as rectūrus; short in sŭmus and volŭmus (and compounds).

Get not to thyself a name by guilt.

The Subjunctive Mood.

The Indicative Mood speaks of a thing as a fact, present, past, or to be, while the Subjunctive Mood speaks of it as merely entertained by the mind, and dependent on other circumstances. Thus, Dŏmum aedĭfĭcāvī, aedĭfĭcābo, I have built a house, I shall build a house, as facts; ŭt ĭn ĕā hăbĭtem, that I may dwell in it, the idea or purpose entertained, but not necessarily coming to pass.

The translation of the Subjunctive Mood with may and might is only an approximation to its meaning. Very often it has to be rendered in English by the corresponding tense of the Indicative Mood, as in the whole of Exercise E.

Note.—The Rule for the sequence of tenses in the Subjunctive Mood is given on p. 127.

Rule 12.—The Conjunction ŭt, that, in order that, and nē, lest, in order that not, are constructed with the Subjunctive Mood.

The Present-Imperfect and Past-Imperfect Tenses, Subjunctive.

XXIX.—Adverbs.

Adverbs are formed from Adjectives and Participles by means of the terminations -ē and -tĕr. Adverbs derived from Adjectives and Participles of the First and Second Declension end in -e, as doctē, learnedly, from doctus. Adverbs derived from Adjectives and Participles of the Third Declension end in -tĕr, as fortĭtĕr, bravely, from fortis.

The Comparative of the Adverb is the same as the Neuter Nominative Singular of the Comparative Adjective, and consequently ends in ius.

The Superlative of the Adverb is formed from the Superlative of the Adjective by changing the final syllable of the latter into ē.

VIII. Neuter Passive Verbs.

Besides Fio several other Intransitive Verbs form their Perfect Tenses after the manner of Passives. The principal of these are the following:

Audeo, ausus sum, audēre,	to dare, venture.
Fīdo, fīsus sum, fīdĕre (with Dat. or Abl.),	to trust.
Gaudeo, gāvīsus sum, gaudēre (with Abl.),	to rejoice.
Sŏleo, sŏlĭtus sum, sŏlēre,	to be accustomed.

So, too, coeno, to sup or dine, often takes coenātus sum, and jūro, to swear, jurātus sum, instead of coenāvi, jurāvi. Such Verbs are called Neuter-Passives.

XXXI.—Impersonal Verbs.

Impersonal Verbs are such as can not have a Personal subject (I, thou, he), and are used only in the Third Person Singular.

The following are the principal Impersonal Verbs:

I. Verbs which denote Mental States.

Dĕcĕt, dĕcŭĭt, dĕcērĕ,	it is seemly.
Dēdĕcĕt, dēdĕcŭĭt, dēdĕcērĕ,	it is unseemly.
Lĭbĕt, lĭbŭĭt and lĭbĭtum est, lĭbērĕ,	it pleases.
Licĕt, licŭĭt and licĭtum est, licērĕ,	it is lawful, it is allowed.

Pŭdĕt vōs,	it shames you, or you are ashamed.
Pŭdĕt eōs,	it shames them, or they are ashamed.

All these Verbs govern the subject in the Accusative Case, except lĭbet, lĭcet, lĭquet, and plăcet, which govern the Dative; as, mĭhi lĭbĕt, it pleases me; mĭhi lĭcĕt, it is lawful for me, I am at liberty, etc.

II. VERBS WHICH DENOTE ATMOSPHERICAL PHENOMENA.

Grandĭnăt, 1,	it hails.
Ningĭt, ninxĭt, ningĕrĕ,	it snows.

XXXIII.—The Genders of Substantives.

GENERAL RULES.

1. Males, Mountains, Months, Winds, and Rivers, are Masculine.

2. Females, Countries, Islands, Towns, and Trees, are Feminine.

3. Indeclinable Substantives, as fās, permitted by heaven, nĕfas, not permitted by heaven, nĭhĭl, nothing, are Neuter.

4. Substantives denoting both the male and the female, as conjux, husband or wife, are Common.

SPECIAL RULES RELATING TO THE DECLENSIONS.

I. First Declension.—All Substantives of the First Declension are Feminine; unless they designate males, as, nauta, a sailor.

II. Second Declension.—Substantives in us and er are Masculine; those in um are Neuter.

A few Substantives in us are Feminine; as, alvus, the belly; cŏlus, a distaff; hŭmus, the ground; vannus, a winnowing fan; arctus, the constellation Bear; carbăsus, fine flax.

A few Substantives in us are Neuter; as, vīrus, poison; pĕlăgus, the sea; vulgus, the common people.

III. Third Declension.—Substantives of the Third Declension are Masculine, Feminine, or Neuter. Their gender must be learned by practice. But the following terminations indicate genders:

1. Masculine.—(a) Substantives in or derived from verbs; as, ămor, love, from ămo, I love.
   (b) Substantives in tor derived from verbs; as, ămātor, a lover, from ămo, I love; victor, a conqueror, from vinco, I conquer.
2. Feminine.—(a) Substantives in io and tio derived from verbs; as, audītio, hearing, from audio, I hear.
   (b) Substantives in tūs derived from Substantives; as, virtus, manliness, from vir, a man.
   (c) Substantives in tās derived from Substantives and Adjectives; as, cīvĭtas, citizenship, from cīvis, a citizen; crūdēlĭtas, cruelty, from crūdēlis, cruel.
   (d) Substantives in tūdo derived from Adjectives; as, longĭtūdo, length, from longus, long.
   (e) Substantives in trix derived from Substantives in tor; as, victrix, a female conqueror, from victor.
3. Neuter.—(a) Substantives in e; as, mărĕ, the sea.
   (b) Substantives in mĕn derived from Verbs; as, flūmen, a river, from flu-ere, to flow.
   (c) Substantives in ŭs and ŭr; as, ŏpus, a work; fulgur, lightning.

Digitized by Google

IV. Fourth Declension.—Substantives in ŭs are Masculine: those in u are Neuter.

A few Substantives in us are Feminine: viz., trĭbus, a tribe (a division of the Roman people); ăcus, a needle; portĭcus, a portico; dŏmus, a house; nŭrus, a daughter-in-law; ănus, an old woman; socrus, a mother-in-law; īdūs (pl.), the Ides (a division of the Roman month); mănŭs, a hand.

V. Fifth Declension.—All are Feminine except dies (mĕrīdies), which in the Plural is always Masculine, and in the Singular either Masculine or Feminine.

Additional Rules of Quantity.

1. A vowel resulting from contraction is long; as, cōgo, from cŏăgo.

2. Derivatives follow the quantity of the words from which they are derived; as, nāvālis, from nāvis, etc.

3. Words adopted from the Greek generally retain the quantity of the original; as, Pallās, ădis, from Παλλάς, ἄδος.

Remark.—Sometimes they fall under the ordinary Latin rules, as rhĕtŏr, from ῥήτωρ, where the final vowel is short before r final.

4. Compound words generally retain the quantity of the simple words of which they are compounded; as, dēmitto, from dē; quīlibet or quīvis, from quī, etc.

5. Monosyllables ending in a vowel have that vowel long, as ā, dā, mē, prō, tū, etc., except enclitics; as, quĕ, nĕ (interrog.), etc.

6. Final a in words that are not declined is long, as frustrā, etc., except ităque and quiăque (also eiăque and pută, which do not frequently occur).

7. Final e in words of more than one syllable is usually short; as, temporĕ, creditĕ, tristĕ, etc.

Exceptions.—In the cases of the First and Fifth Declensions (as Phoebē, diē), in the Second Singular of Imperative of the Second Conjugation (as monē, salvē), in Adverbs in e from Adjectives of the First and Second Declensions (as justē, pulchrē), and in fermē, ferē, olē, the final e is long.

" 5.....	7	" 11.....	57	" 17.....	90
" 6.....	10	" 12.....	59

XXXIV.—The Ablative after the Comparative.

Rule 18.—After Adjectives in the Comparative degree quam may be omitted and the Ablative used instead of the Nominative or Accusative; as, vīliŭs argentum est auro, silver is more common than gold.

Vocabulary 49.

cunctus, a, um,	all, all together.	Phīdias, ae, m.	Phidias, a famous Athenian sculptor.

videtur. 6. Elephanto belluarum nulla prudentior est. 7. Tullus Hostilius non solum proximo regi dissimilis, sed ferocior etiam Romulo fuit. 8. Humana omnia inferiora sunt virtute. 9. Phidiae simulacris nihil est perfectius. 10. Sol major et splendidior est lunā.

1. What is brighter than the sun? what more excellent than virtue? 2. Who doubts that the sun is larger than the moon? 3. The earth is greater than the moon; the sun than the earth. 4. Silver and gold are brighter than iron. 5. The elephant is more sagacious than all (other) beasts. 6. There is no doubt that the knowledge of these things is better than the ignorance (of them). 7. Caesar was more powerful than all (the rest of) the citizens. 8. What is commoner than water? yet (autem) what is more useful? 9. Hatred is better than pretense of friendship. 10. No-one of the Athenians is more renowned than Socrates.

XXXV.—Ablative Absolute.

Rule 19.—When a secondary clause contains a different subject from the subject of the principal clause, the Verb in the secondary clause is in Latin frequently changed into a Participle, and agrees with its subject in the Ablative Case. This construction is called the Ablative Absolute; as, sōlĕ ortō, Rōmānī hostēs vīdērunt, when the sun had risen, the Romans saw the enemy.

The Latin language possesses no Perfect Participle Active except in the case of Deponent Verbs; hence in English the Perfect Participle Active, which agrees with the subject of the Verb, is in Latin put in the Ablative Case together with its own object; as, Caesăr, expŏsĭtō exercĭtū, ăd hostēs contendĭt, Cæsar, having landed the army, hastens against the enemy.

XXXIX.—Direct Questions.

Rule 24.—Questions are usually put in Latin with the help of Interrogative words or particles; as, Quĭd ăgĭs? What are you doing? Pŭtas-nĕ? Do you think? Nonnĕ-pŭtās? Do you not think?

The principal Interrogative particles are nĕ, num, utrum, ăn. Of these nĕ is always written as an enclitic, like the Conjunction que. Utrum and an are used only when two alternatives are spoken of; and an always with the second alternative.

Num has a negative force, as Num ĭtă pŭtās = You don't think so, do you? and is to be used when the answer No is looked for. Utrum . . . ăn may be translated by whether . . . or; as, Utrum sōl ăn lūnă mājŏr est? Whether is the sun or the moon the greater? Nĕ does not need to be expressed by any English word; as, Visnĕ? Do you wish? Nonnĕ pŭtās? Do you not think?

Vocabulary 55.

consentio, nsi, nsum, 4,	I agree.	eloquens, ntis,	eloquent.

XL.—Indirect Questions.

Rule 25.—Indirect Questions are those which are quoted as having been asked, or are dependent upon some word expressing doubt, uncertainty, or wonder, in the former part of the sentence; as, Rŏgābo quid factum sĭt, I will ask what has been done; Mīrum est quae fŭĕrit causă, It is strange what the reason may have been; Vĭdēbo num rĕdĭĕrĭt, I will see whether he has returned. The dependent verb is always put in the Subjunctive Mood.

Rule 26.—The Tense of the Verb in the Subjunctive Mood is determined by that of the Verb in the former part of the sentence upon which it depends. (1.) If the Verb in the former clause expresses Present or Future Time, the Verb in the dependent clause is put in the Present or Future Tense Subjunctive. (2.) If the Verb in the principal clause expresses Past Time, the Verb in the dependent clause is put in the Past Tense Subjunctive.

Present and Future Time.

Present Imperf.	Scio quĭd ăgās,	I know what you are doing.
	Scio quĭd ēgĕrĭs,	I know what you have done.
	Scio quĭd actūrus sīs,	I know what you are going to do.
Present Perfect.	Cognōvī quĭd ăgās,	I have learnt what you are doing.
	Cognōvī quĭd ēgĕrĭs,	I have learnt what you have done.
	Cognōvī quĭd actūrus sīs,	I have learnt what you are going to do.
Future Imperf.	Audiam quĭd ăgās,	I shall hear what you are doing.
	Audiam quĭd ēgĕrĭs,	I shall hear what you have done.
	Audiam quĭd actūrus sīs,	I shall hear what you are going to do.

Past Time.

Past Imperf.	Sciēbam quĭd ăgĕrēs,	I knew what you were doing.
	Sciēbam quĭd ēgissēs,	I knew what you had done.
	Sciēbam quĭd actūrŭs essēs,	I knew what you were going to do.
Past Indefin.	Cognōvī quĭd ăgĕrēs,	I learnt what you were doing.
	Cognōvī quĭd ēgissēs,	I learnt what you had done.
	Cognōvī quĭd actūrŭs essēs,	I learnt what you were going to do.

PAST PERFECT.

Cognōvĕram quĭd ăgĕrēs, I had learnt what you were doing.
Cognōvĕram quĭd ēgissēs, I had learnt what you had done.
Cognōvĕram quĭd actūrūs essēs, I had learnt what you were going to do.

The same Rule is applicable to the sequence of Tenses in the Subjunctive Mood universally. See Exercises XXV., XXVI., XXVII., XXVIII. (the Subjunctive Mood.)

N.B.—In single Indirect Questions whether is generally expressed by num, which then ceases to have a negative force. In double Indirect Questions it is expressed either by utrum or -ne.

Laeca. 10. Do you doubt whether it behooves a good citizen to side-with his country in time of danger?

XLI.—Additional Exercises on the Subjunctive Mood.

Rule 27.—Besides ŭt, nē, and quīn (see Exercise XXV., etc.), the Conjunctions quō, that, and quōmĭnus, that not, are constructed with the Subjunctive Mood.

Digitized by Google

1. Ut=that, in order that, granting that, is used to express either a purpose or a consequence; as, ĕo ut spectem lūdos, I am going in order that I may look at the games; accĭdĭt ut nōn dŏmī essem, it happened that I was not at home.

2. Nē=that not, is used to express a purpose, but not a mere consequence; as, Haec făcĭo nē mē ĭnĭmīcum tĭbi pŭtēs, these things I do that you may not think me your enemy; but, sĕquĭtŭr ut haec nōn vera sint, it follows that these things are not true.

Obs. After verbs of fearing, ŭt has the meaning of that not, and nē of that; as, tĭmĕo ut dux mīlitēs ē castrīs ēdūcăt, I fear that the general may not lead the soldiers out of the camp; timĕo nē dux mīlitēs ē castrīs ēdūcăt, I fear that the general will lead the soldiers out of the camp.

3. Quīn is used after negative propositions and propositions expressing doubt; as, dĭēs nullŭs est, quīn littĕras scrībam, there is no day that I do not write a letter; nōn dŭbĭto quīn vērum dixĕris, I do not doubt you have spoken the truth. (See Exercise XXV, C, etc.)

4. Quō is used for ŭt ĕō, and signifies that thereby, in order that, so that: haec lex dătă est, quō mălĕfĭcī dēterrērentŭr, this law was given (enacted) that thereby evil-doers might be deterred; portās oppĭdī obstruxit, quō făcĭlĭŭs impĕtum hostium rĕtardārĕt, he barricaded the gates of the town in order that he might more easily retard the attack of the enemy.

5. Quōmĭnŭs, that not, is used after Verbs of hindering, preventing, resisting, etc., and must be frequently translated in English by from and a verbal substantive; as, aetās nōs non impĕdit quōmĭnus littĕras tractēmus, age does not prevent us from cultivating literature.

XLIII.—Use of the Gerund.

Rule 29.—The Gerund is a Verbal Neuter Substantive, governing the same case as the Verb from which it comes. It corresponds to the English Verbal Substantives in ing; as, writing, walking.

It is declined in the Singular only, and is not used in the Nominative Case, the Imperfect of the Infinitive Mood taking the place of the Nominative; as,

Nom. Lĕgĕre pulchra carmĭna suāve est, reading (to read) beautiful poems is delightful.
Gen. Ars puĕrōs ēdŭcandi difficĭlĭs est, the art of educating boys is difficult.
Dat. Scrībendō ŏpĕram dăt, he devotes his care to writing.
Acc. Nātŭs ăd ăgendum, born for acting.
Abl. Littĕras tractandō mens ăcŭĭtŭr, the wits are sharpened by dealing with letters.

Obs. The Accusative Case of the Gerund is used only with Prepositions; otherwise the Imperfect Infinitive is used; as, disco nătāre. I learn swimming.

utilis est bibendo. 6. Mores puerorum se inter ludendum detegunt. 7. Hominis mens discendo et cogitando alitur. 8. Caesari dare jucundissimum erat. 9. Inter bibendum de variis rebus colloquebamur. 10. Quid potest esse jucundius quam inter ambulandum libĕre de variis rebus colloqui?

1. Very many persons burn with the desire of having more (pl.). 2. Epaminondas was eager-after hearing (Gen.). 3. All are not zealous of living well. 4. He got together very many horses and (que) dogs for the sake of hunting. 5. Do not attempt to obtain friends by flattering. 6. Do not attempt to preserve your life by lying. 7. Bodies are nourished by eating and drinking. 8. The soul is nourished by thinking (cogito), feeling, acting. 9. Conversing about (de) these things is most delightful. 10. It is becoming a youth to burn with a zeal for knowledge (Gerund).

XLIV.—USE OF THE GERUNDIVE.

RULE 30.—The Gerundive is a Passive Verbal Adjective; as, scrībendus, a, um, to be written, necessary or fit to be written.

When the Verb from which the Gerundive comes governs an Accusative Case, the Gerundive agrees with the Nominative Case of its Substantive; as, scrībenda est mihi ĕpistŏla, a letter must be or ought to be written by me, or I must or ought to write a letter.

The person by whom the thing is to be done is put in the Dative (see preceding example).

1. Virtue must be cultivated. 2. Who doubts that the gods are to be feared? 3. A parent (Dat.) ought so to train-up (his) son that he may obey the laws of virtue. 4. Those persons are to be admired who have dared to die for (pro) their country. 5. (We) must preserve the state; (we) must crush the conspiracy. 6. Virtue must not only be cultivated, but also loved. 7. These things must not be passed over by us (Dat.). 8. Before (prae) all other things (res) the war must be carried on vigorously. 9. We (Dat.) ought to read the orators and poets. 10. A man (Dat.) should not despise death.

RULE 31.—When the Verb from which the Gerundive comes governs any other Case than the Accusative, the Gerundive is used impersonally in the Nominative Case Singular Neuter. The Object is put in the Case which the Verb governs, and the agent or doer is put in the Dative Case; as, obtempĕrandum est (nōbīs) virtūtis praeceptīs (Dative), we must obey the lessons of virtue; suo cuīque jūdĭcio (Ablative) utendum est, each one must use his own judgment. N.B.—The Dative of the Agent is not always expressed.

VOCABULARY 61.

ingrĕdior, gressus, 3, I enter.
interclūdo, si, sum, 3, I shut off, intercept.
obtempĕro, etc., 1, I obey, comply with.

Exercise LXI.

1. Omnibus moriendum est. 2. Ita bellandum est ut pax peti videatur. 3. Mihi utendum est judicio meo. 4. Nobis quoque ingrediendum est quam confecisti viam. 5. Ita nobis vivendum est ut ad mortem parati simus. 6. Non longius progrediendum est, commilitones, ne commeatibus nostris intercludamur. 7. Non dubium est quin bono civi legibus sit obtemperandum. 8. Proficiscendum mihi erat illo ipso die. 9. Magnopere est curandum ne nobis consilium defuisse videatur. 10. Cognoscendum est quid de illo homine factum sit.

1. Must (we) not (nonne) all die? 2. We must die bravely, fellow-soldiers! 3. Boys ought to strive-hard to please their parents. 4. We must strive with (our) utmost zeal that the commonwealth may be preserved. 5. We must not believe all men in every thing. 6. We must set out immediately. 7. It is greatly to be desired that the war may be brought-to-an-end. 8. We must take great care (see No. 9 above) that we are not (ne) shut off from all help. 9. What must we do, citizens? Which-of-the-two (Dat.) should we trust? 10. We ought so to learn as (ut) not immediately to forget.

Rule 32.—The Gerundive is frequently used instead of the Gerund.

1. The Accusative is put in the same case as the Gerund.

2. The Gerund is then changed into the Gerundive.

3. The Gerundive is made to agree with the Substantive in gender, number, and case; thus

Gen. Ars puĕrōs ēdŭcandī difficĭlĭs est becomes

Ars puĕrōrum ēdŭcandōrum difficĭlĭs est in the following way: (1.) The Accusative pueros is put in the same case as the Gerund educandi; consequently puerorum. (2.) The Gerund educandi is changed into the Gerundive educandus, a, um. (3.) The Gerundive is put in the same case, gender, and number, as puerorum; consequently, educandorum.

Dat. Opĕram dăt ăgro cŏlendō, { he devotes himself to cultivating land.

Acc. Ad pĕtendam pācem vēnērunt lēgātī, { embassadors came to seek for peace.

Abl. Littĕris tractandis mens ăcuĭtŭr, { the wits are sharpened by dealing with letters.

Obs. The Gerundive is employed more frequently than the Gerund. The Gerund is chiefly used where an ambiguity would be occasioned by the use of the Gerundive; as. stŭdium plūrā cognoscendī, the desire of learning more, rather than stŭdium plūrium cognoscendōrum, which would leave it doubtful whether things or men were meant.

XVI. Ubi de ejus adventu Helvetii certiores facti sunt, legatos ad eum mittunt, qui dicerent: Sibi esse in animo, sine ullo maleficio iter per provinciam facere. Caesar a lacu Lemano ad montem Juram murum fossamque perducit. Negat se posse iter ulli per provinciam dare. Relinquebatur una per Sequanos via, qua, Sequanis invitis, propter angustias ire non poterant.

XVII. His quum persuadere non possent, legatos ad Dumnorigem mittunt, ut, eo deprecatore, impetrarent. Dumnorix apud Sequanos plurimum poterat, et Helvetiis erat amicus, quod Orgetorigis filiam in matrimonium duxerat. Itaque rem suscipit, et a Sequanis impetrat, ut, per fines suos, Helvetios ire patiantur.

XVIII. Caesar in Italiam magnis itineribus contendit, duasque ibi legiones conscribit, et tres ex hibernis educit, et in ulteriorem Galliam, per Alpes, ire contendit. In fines Vocontiorum die septimo pervenit; inde in Allobrogum fines, ab Allobrogibus in Segusianos exercitum ducit. Hi sunt, extra provinciam, trans Rhodanum primi.

XIX. Helvetii jam per angustias, et fines Sequanorum suas copias transduxerat, et Aeduorum agros populabantur. Aedui, quum se defendere non possent, legatos ad Caesarem mittunt, rogatum auxilium. Eodem tempore Ambarri, consanguinei Aeduorum, Caesarem certiorem faciunt, sese, depopulatis agris, non facile ab oppidis vim hostium prohibere. Item Allobroges, qui trans Rhodanum vicos possessionesque habebant, fuga se ad Caesarem recipiunt. Caesar non expectandum sibi statuit, dum in Santonos Helvetii pervenirent.

XX. Flumen est Arar, quod per fines Aeduorum et Sequanorum in Rhodanum influit, incredibili lenitate, ita ut oculis in utram partem fluat judicari non possit. Id Helvetii, ratibus et lintribus junctis, transibant. Ubi Caesar certior factus est, tres copiarum partes Helvetios transduxisse, quartam vero partem citra flumen esse, de tertia vigilia e castris profectus ad eam partem pervenit, quae nondum transierat.

cĭdit. Reliqui sese in proximas silvas abdiderunt. Is pagus appellabatur Tigurinus: nam omnis civitas Helvetia in quatuor pagos divisa est. Hic pagus Lucium Cassium, consulem, interfecerat, et ejus exercitum sub jugum miserat. Ita, quae pars calamitatem populo Romano intulerat, ea princeps poenas persolvit.

XXII. Hoc proelio facto, reliquas copias Helvetiorum ut consequi posset, pontem in Arare faciundum curat, atque ita exercitum transducit. Helvetii, repentino ejus adventu commoti, legatos ad eum mittunt, cujus legationis Divico princeps fuit, qui bello Cassiano dux Helvetiorum fuerat. Is ita cum Caesare agit:

XXIII. Si pacem populus Romanus cum Helvetiis faceret, in eam partem ituros, ubi Caesar eos esse voluisset; sin bello persequi perseveraret, reminisceretur et veteris incommodi populi Romani, et pristinae virtutis Helvetiorum. Se ita a patribus majoribusque suis didicisse, ut magis virtute quam dolo contenderent. Quare, ne committeret, ut is locus, ubi constitissent, ex calamitate populi Romani nomen caperet.

XXIV. His Caesar ita respondit: Sibi minus dubitationis dari, quod eas res, quas commemorassent, memoria teneret. Si veteris contumeliae oblivisci vellet, num recentium injuriarum memoriam deponere posse? Tamen, si obsides ab iis sibi dentur, uti ea, quae polliceantur, facturos intelligat, et, si Aeduis de injuriis, quas ipsis sociisque eorum intulerint, item si Allobrogibus satisfaciant, sese cum iis pacem facturum.

XXV. Divico respondit: Ita Helvetios a majoribus suis institutos esse, uti obsides accipere, non dare consueverint; ejus rei populum Romanum esse testem. Hoc responso dato, discessit. Postero die castra ex eo loco movent. Idem facit Caesar. Equitatum omnem praemittit, qui videant, quas in partes hostes iter faciant. Qui alieno loco cum equitatu Helvetiorum proelium committunt, et pauci de nostris cadunt. Helvetii audacius subsistere, nonnunquam nostros lacessere coeperunt.

XXVI. Caesar suos a proelio continebat; ac satis habebat in praesentia hostem rapinis prohibere. Ita dies circiter quindecim iter fecerunt, uti, inter novissimum hostium agmen et nostrum primum, non amplius quinis aut senis millibus passuum interesset. Interim quotidie Caesar Aeduos frumentum, quod essent publice polliciti, flagitare. Nam, propter frigora, non modo frumenta in agris matura non erant, sed ne pabuli quidem satis magna copia suppetebat. Eo autem frumento, quod flumine Arare navibus subvexerat, minus uti poterat, quod iter ab Arare Helvetii averterant, a quibus discedere nolebat.

XXVII. Diem ex die ducere Aedui; conferri, comportari, adesse dicere. Ubi se diutius duci intellexit, et diem instare, quo die frumentum militibus metiri oporteret, convocatis eorum principibus, quorum magnam copiam in castris habebat, in his Divitiaco et Lisco, qui summo magistratui praeerat, graviter eos accusat, quod ab iis non sublevetur; praesertim quum, magna ex parte, eorum precibus adductus bellum susceperit.

XXVIII. Tum demum Liscus proponit: Esse nonnullos, quorum auctoritas apud plebem plurimum valeat; hos seditiosa atque improba oratione multitudinem deterrere, ne frumentum conferant. Ab iisdem nostra consilia hostibus enunciari; hos a se coerceri non posse. Quin etiam, quod rem Caesari enunciârit, intelligere sese, quanto id cum periculo fecerit; et, ob eam causam, quamdiu potuerit, tacuisse.

XXIX. Caesar hac oratione Dumnorigem, Divitiaci fratrem, designari sentiebat; sed, quod, pluribus praesentibus, eas res jactari nolebat, celeriter concilium dimittit; Liscum retinet; dicit liberius atque audacius. Eadem secreto ab aliis quaerit; reperit esse vera: Ipsum esse Dumnorigem, summa audacia, magna apud plebem propter liberalitatem gratia, cupidum novarum rerum; complures annos, omnia Aeduorum vectigalia parvo pretio redempta habere; propterea quod, illo licente, contra liceri audeat nemo.

XXX. His rebus suam rem familiarem auxisse, magnum numerum equitatus semper circum se habere. Favere Helvetiis propter affinitatem; odisse Caesarem et Romanos, quod eorum adventu potentia ejus diminuta, et Divitiacus frater in antiquum locum gratiae atque honoris sit restitutus. Si quid accidat Romanis summam in spem regni per Helvetios obtinendi venire; imperio populi Romani, non modo de regno, sed etiam de ea, quam habeat, gratia desperare.

XXXI. Quum ad has suspiciones certissimae res accederent, satis esse causae arbitrabatur, quare in eum aut ipse animadverteret, aut civitatem animadvertere juberet. His omnibus unum repugnabat, quod Divitiaci fratris summum in Populum Romanum studium, summam in se voluntatem, egregiam fidem, justitiam, temperantiam cognoverat: nam, ne ejus supplicio Divitiaci animum offenderet, verebatur. Itaque, priusquam quidquam conaretur, Divitiacum ad se vocari jubet; simul commonefacit, quae, ipso praesente, in concilio Gallorum sint dicta; et ostendit, quae separatim quisque de eo apud se dixerit.

XXXII. Divitiacus multis cum lacrimis obsecrare coepit, ne quid gravius in fratrem statueret: Scire se, illa esse vera; sese tamen et amore fraterno et existimatione vulgi commoveri. Quod si quid ei a Caesare gravius accidisset, quum ipse eum locum amicitiae apud eum teneret, neminem existimaturum non sua voluntate factum; qua ex re futurum, uti totius Galliae animi a se averterentur. Caesar ejus dextram prendit; Dumnorigem ad se vocat; fratrem adhibet; quae in eo reprehendat, ostendit; monet, ut in reliquum tempus omnes suspiciones vitet.

XXXIV. Prima luce, quum summus mons a Tito Labieno teneretur, ipse ab hostium castris non longius mille et quingentis passibus abesset, neque aut ipsius adventus, aut Labieni, cognitus esset, Considius, equo admisso, ad eum accurrit; dicit montem, quem a Labieno occupari voluerit, ab hostibus teneri; id se ex Gallicis armis atque insignibus cognovisse. Caesar suas copias in proximum collem subducit, aciem instruit.

XXXV. Labienus, ut erat ei praeceptum (ut undique uno tempore in hostes impetus fieret), monte occupato, nostros exspectabat, proelioque abstinebat. Multo denique die, per exploratores Caesar cognovit, montem a suis teneri, et Considium perterritum, quod non vidisset, pro viso renunciasse. Eo die, quo consuerat intervallo, hostes sequitur; et millia passuum tria ab eorum castris castra ponit.

XXXVI. Postridie ejus diei, quod omnino biduum supererat, quum exercitui frumentum metiri oporteret, et quod a Bibracte, oppido Aeduorum longe maximo et copiosissimo, non amplius millibus passuum duodeviginti aberat, rei frumentariae prospiciendum existimavit, ac Bibracte ire contendit. Helvetii, seu quod perterritos Romanos discedere existimarent, sive quod re frumentaria intercludi posse confiderent, itinere converso, nostros a novissimo agmine insequi ac lacessere coeperunt. Postquam id animum advertit, copias suas Caesar in proximum collem subducit; equitatumque, qui sustineret hostium impetum, misit.

XXXVII. Ipse interim in colle medio triplicem aciem instruxit. Sarcinas in unum locum conferri, et eum ab iis, qui in superiore acie constiterant, muniri jussit. Helvetii, cum omnibus suis carris secuti, impedimenta in unum locum contulerunt. Ipsi confertissima acie, rejecto nostro equitatu, phalange facta, sub primam nostram aciem successerunt. Caesar, primum suo, deinde omnium remotis equis, ut spem fugae tolleret, cohortatus suos, proelium commisit. Milites, e loco superiore pilis missis, facile hostium phalangem perfregerunt. Ea disjecta, gladiis districtis in eos impetum fecerunt.

XXXVIII. Gallis magno erat impedimento, quod, pluribus eorum scutis uno ictu pilorum transfixis et colligatis, quum Tandem vulneribus defessi et pedem referre, et, quod mons suberat circiter mille passuum, eo se recipere coeperunt. Capto monte, et succedentibus nostris, Boii et Tulingi, qui agmen hostium claudebant, ex itinere nostros aggressi, circumvenere; et id conspicati Helvetii, qui in montem se receperant, rursus instare et proelium redintegrare coeperunt.

ut venientes exciperet. Ita, ancipiti proelio diu atque acriter pugnatum est. Diutius quum nostrorum impetus sustinere non possent, alteri se, ut coeperant, in montem receperunt; alteri ad impedimenta et carros suos se contulerunt. Nam hoc toto proelio, quum ab hora septima ad vesperum pugnatum sit, aversum hostem videre nemo potuit. Ad multam noctem etiam ad impedimenta pugnatum est; propterea quod pro vallo carros objecerant.

XL. Impedimentis castrisque nostri potiti sunt. Ibi Orgetorigis filia atque unus e filiis captus est. Ex eo proelio circiter millia hominum centum et triginta superfuerunt, eaque tota nocte ierunt; in fines Lingonum die quarto pervenerunt; quum, et propter vulnera militum et sepulturam occisorum, nostri eos sequi non potuissent. Caesar ad Lingonas literas nunciosque misit, ne eos frumento neve alia re juvarent. Ipse, triduo intermisso, cum omnibus copiis eos sequi coepit.

XLI. Helvetii, omnium rerum inopia adducti, legatos de deditione ad eum miserunt. Qui quum se ad pedes projecissent, suppliciterque locuti pacem petissent, atque eos in eo loco, quo tum essent, adventum suum exspectare jussisset, paruerunt. Eo postquam pervenit, obsides, arma, servos, qui ad eos perfugissent, poposcit. Helvetios in fines suos reverti jussit; et quod, omnibus frugibus amissis, domi nihil erat, Allobrogibus imperavit, ut iis frumenti copiam facerent; ipsos oppida vicosque, quos incenderant, restituere jussit, quod noluit eum locum vacare, ne, proper bonitatem agrorum Germani in Helvetiorum fines transirent.

XLII. In castris Helvetiorum tabulae repertae sunt, literis Graecis confectae, quibus in tabulis nominatim ratio confecta erat, qui numerus domo exisset eorum, qui arma ferre possent; et item separatim pueri, senes, mulieresque. Summa omnium fuerat ad millia trecenta sexaginta et octo. Eorum, qui domum redierunt, repertus est numerus millium centum et decem.

Bello Helvetiorum confecto, totius fere Galliae legati, principes civitatum, ad Caesarem gratulatum convenerunt.

Additional Rules of Quantity

(and exceptions to some previous rules).

I. A vowel before another vowel is short.

Exceptions.

1. The vowel e before final i in the Genitive and Dative of the 5th Declension is long; as, diēi.

But in fidei and rei the e is common; in spei it is short.

2. The i in Genitives in ius is to be pronounced long in prose; is common in poetry, except alius, and alterius.

3. The i in fio and its tenses is long, except when followed by er.

4. The a and e are long in proper names in āius and ēius.

Increments.

II. In the singular Increment of Nouns and Adjectives a and o are long; as, aetas, ātis; soror, ōris.

Exceptions.

1. All words in bs and ps increasing in a or o have the increase short; as, trabs, ăbis; ops, ŏpis.

2. Names of persons ending in al and ar increase short; as, Hannibal, ălis; Caesar, ăris.

3. The Nouns sal, jubar, lar, par, anas, mas, vas (vădis), and fax also increase short.

NOTE.—Words adopted directly from the Greek, like hepar, etc., retain the Greek quantity in the increment.

4. O is short in the Increment of Neuter Nouns; as, corpus, ŏris; and in arbor, memor, bos, lepus, compos, and impos.

III. In the singular Increment of Nouns, etc., e, i, and u are short; as, hiems, ĕmis; lapis, ĭdis; murmur, ŭris.

Exceptions.

1. In e. The following Nouns increase in e long: halec, heres, locuples, mansues, merces, quies, plebs, lex, rex, vervex.

(Many Greek Nouns, as tapes, etis, etc., have the e long, but they follow the Greek.)

2. In i. a. The Nouns Dis, glis, lis, Quiris, Samnis, and vibex increase in i long.

b. All Adjectives in ix increase in i long, and all Nouns in ix, except monosyllables, as nix, pix, etc., and calix, filix, larix, fornix, salix, and varix.

3. In u. a. Words which make udis, uris, utis, in the Genitive from Nominatives in us have u long in the increase.

b. Fur, lux (frux), and Pollux also increase long.

Digitized by Google

IV. The inseparable prepositions di and se are long; re is short.

NOTE.—Rĕfert (where the re is from res) has the e long.

The Rules for Penults and Antepenults, and exceptions to other rules, will not be given here; the quantity must be learned from the Dictionary, and the rules reserved for a more advanced Grammar.
